ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0036] Channels in an optical network that carry optical signals are evaluated using signal characteristics and suitable channels are compared to identify the channels that represent a single conversation using matching criteria. In another aspect, only channels that carry optical signals representing conversations of interest are compared.

-22-